VOL. X. NO. 1.

CROSSFIELD, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 5th, 1917.

PRICE $1 A YEAR.

LAUT BROS.

AT the beginning of the New Year the partnership heretofore existing between Messrs. Wm. and Frank Laut will be dissolved—Mr. Wm. Laut continuing the business and Mr. Frank Laut retiring.

At the close of this our joint business career, we desire to convey to our many friends in this district our appreciation of the confidence and business with which they have entrusted us during the last six years, and to express the hope that the new management will merit and receive the same kindly consideration at your hands.

We feel that it will only be necessary to mention to those of our friends whose 1916 accounts are still open, that in order to make a division it is imperative that settlement be made at once, and we trust that those to whom this applies will give this matter their attention within the next few days.

That all happiness may be yours throughout the coming year, that prosperity may smile on you, and that your confidence in the Old Corner Store may never be shaken, is our sincere wish.

Village Council Meeting

On Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, the first meeting of the newly elected councillors took place, and as is usual the first business was the swearing in and signing of the declaration.

The election of Reeve was then proceeded with, and as Mr. S. Collins has given entire satisfaction during his term of office, he was again elected for the ensuing year.

The outstanding accounts were passed and ordered to be paid.

The Secretary next read a circular re The National Service Scheme from R. B. Bennett, Councillor Whillans moved: That we thoroughly endorse the scheme and do all we can to make the same a success. Carried.

The question as to the time of meeting was next discussed, and as the present time of meeting was considered to be inconvenient Reeve Collins moved: That we rescind the present By-law and substitute the words, "to meet at 4 p.m." instead of as at present 8 p.m. Carried.

The Draymen's license next came up for discussion and it was thought that it would be beneficial to the village to rescind that license for the time being. Carried.

The Pool Room licenses came up for discussion, and as Pool Rooms are heavily taxed, it was decided that this license should also be dropped for the present. Reeve Collins did not take any part in the discussion on this matter.

Important Amendment to Regulations governing the Admission of Canadian Potatoes into the United States

The Department of Agriculture has just been advised of an important amendment to these regulations.

Hereafter permits will be issued to United States importers by the Federal Horticultural Board at Washington for the admission of Canadian potatoes at any port of entry, instead of at certain designated ports as at present and without inspection at the port of entry, except when such inspection is specifically required by the Board, but each shipment must be accompanied by two copies of a certificate of soundness signed by the Canadian shipper in obtaining from the United States consignee the number of his permit should ask to be supplied with enough copies of the certificate of soundness to cover the individual shipments to be made.

Shippers are warned that the offering for entry to the United States of potatoes not up to the standard of the certificate of soundness may lead not only to the rejection of their particular shipments, but also to the cancellation of existing permits and the refusal of new permits as to such shippers.

Further information respecting these regulations may be obtained on application to the Dominion Botanical, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

LOANS FOR LIVESTOCK

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE is prepared to encourage the development of the Western livestock industry by extending liberal credits to good farmers to purchase breeder and feeder livestock.

FINISH THE FEEDERS IN CANADA

KEEP THE HEIFERS AT HOME

In 1915 about 45,000 head of feeder cattle were taken from the Winnipeg stock yards for distribution among farmers in the Northwestern States, representing a serious loss to Western Canadian farmers.

We wish to assist in stopping this movement. Consult us before selling unfinished stock. If you must sell, let us try to find you a buyer at home and build up your own district.

the horns of the reeve, quail joyfully, then the wicker turned seemed to leap into the air and a flash was gone!

Teddy rubbed his eyes. It was funny! He thought he was at the window, but here he was in bed.

He sat up and looked around the room. The fire no longer glowed out, but the gray light of the morning was beginning to steal through the curtains. Teddy did not of bed and crept softly to the fireplace.

The stockings were bulging in all directions, as if they had been their exhilarating went in other years! He put out his hand and touched one of them gently. It was no dream. The stocking was full to overflowing!

With a little sighing, whispering wheeze of joy and relief Teddy clasped his hands until the knuckles showed as white as the snow outside. Then with a cry of absolute delight he dashed into his mother's bedroom.

She opened a pair of sleepy eyes at the sound of the patterning little feet. Teddy threw himself upon her, laughing and sobbing.

"Oh, mother, mother, mother!" he cried. "He came after all! Santa Claus did it!"

"He did, he did, he did!"

Among Roumanians

Roumanian girls can learn, during the Christmas season, whether or not they are going to be married within the coming year. At midnight they enter the stable and strike the foot of the first ox they come across, saying: "This year, next year." If the ox gets up at the first stroke the girl will marry within the year; if it does not get up at the second stroke the marriage will take place the year following; if it does not get up at all the gods have not yet decided on her wedding date.

Christmas Spirit

Too many of us take mean things on faith and demand proof of good things.

Open kneel in the stall at midnight on Christmas, kneel in faith tradition. They kneel as if in adoration of the Nativity.

When you agree for sake of a argument that it's a good thing to buy goods made in Canada, don't forget that it's not merely a matter of argument. No it.

LADY
HUSBAND

"Of course not," sneered Paul. "I pray tell her ladyship for me that I congratulate her upon her action. She is quite right to send these stones away, and to sweep away the last trace of the unfortunate accident which made her my wife. I am sorry I cannot renounce the honor of being her husband as easily as she can get rid of all remembrance of me."
Lord Eastling put the parcel in his pocket and turned to look for his hat. "You're not fair to her just now," he said quietly. "Of course it's not to be expected. Some day she'll understand her better. A woman can behave just normally when she's had her heart broken."
Paul slunk away without another word, and Lord Eastling dashed out of the house to catch the afternoon post to London.

Paul looked at his watch. He had twenty minutes to spare before the car would be round to take him to the station. He went into the library, wrote a note to Lady Ursula, tore it up, wrote another. He had torn that up and watched it burn when a footman opened the door and announced: "A person to see you, sir."
Paul looked up, raging, on finding himself face to face with Lord Eastling. The Welshman was flushed, and his eyes were gleaming with anger. He thrust out his hand towards Paul, and said, as he banged the writing table with his hand: "Now, then, Syd Tomkinson, alias Paul Payne, alias anything else you like, I've come to settle up. Where's the stones?"
Paul pushed back his chair, and looked up with an exceedingly "nasty" expression.

"You've mixed things up a little, haven't you?" he said coolly. "If you wanted those, you should have come about them before the course you adopted of showing that paper I signed to the lady who has done me the honor to become my wife."
"Honor! Wife! Come, no flimsy-mery, so I had a right to show you up. Come, you know that. I was your share, or your exposure. Well, you've got it straight now, and we're quits so far. Now we come to the share out."
"Too late," said Paul easily, recovering a little of the composure which he found it impossible to maintain in the presence of his brother-in-law and Lady Ursula. "We're quits, as you say; but you can't expect to have your revenge and the stones as well. That's not cricket."

"Cricket be blowed. If you don't hand 'em over—"

He leaned over the table, purple and furious.

Paul laughed.

"Well, if I don't, what then?"

"Then I shall insist on seeing your fine lady wife, and I shall get 'em out of her!"

Paul shook his head slowly as he rose and looked at his watch.

"That would be of no use now," he said, "for the stones have been posted to the Lost Property Office, Scotland Yard, and if you wish to claim them, you must go there?"

Evans staggered back, as if he had been struck between the eyes.

"It's a lie!" he gasped, choking.

"All right. Wait till the usual list comes out of property recovered. Then I think you will recognize your lost stones. I've got to catch a train. Are you coming out?"

He had entirely recovered his coolness, and he sauntered across the room to the door and politely held it open. Evans made one rush at him, with an exclamation like the roar of an enraged bull, saw the calm eyes, the ready hand, changed his mind and staggered out, down the passage and across the hall to the front door.

Paul left him at the foot of the steps, gave a word of warning to the footman not to let him in again, and drove away to the station.

He had got the best of it that time, and he made light of the helpless, apologetic fury of the disappointed rascal he had left behind him.

At the same time he sent a message back to Oare Court by the chauffeur to warn the household against admitting the man on any pretence whatever, and a note to Lord Eastling emphasising this warning, and begging him to keep watch over Lady Ursula, and to prevent this man from forcing himself into her presence again.

Again and again, as he was borne along towards London in the express, Paul was worried by the thought that Evans, who was vindictive and unscrupulous, might try to get his revenge by some sort of personal attack upon Lady Ursula, and he was stung to the quick by the thought that he himself had no longer either the power or the right to intervene for her protection.

What if the little rascal should find means to force himself into her presence on the journey to Wintersand, where her brother was going to take her without delay?

What if he should follow her to her father's house and renew his attack at that place?

Paul dared not warn the police, for fear that this should lead to an exposure of the whole connection between himself and the two confederates, for he rightly judged that the family which he had disgraced would prefer any danger to a public scandal.

So he was so anxious that he prepared three or four telegrams, to be sent off from the first stopping-place, and the last of his confederates, as soon as the train got there to send them off.

On his way back to the carriage, however, he experienced a strong sensation of relief on recognizing the malignant face of Wilfrid Evans at the window of a third-class compartment.

He went back to his own carriage almost happy in the knowledge that the peril he had feared was averted. Evans was no longer hanging about Oare Court, and all immediate danger from his malignity was at an end.

Paul saw no more of him.

At Euston he got into a taxi and drove to the little hotel off the Strand where he usually stayed, recalled as he was going in that it was there he had stayed with his wife, and turning on his heel, went away again and entered another.

He had enough money with him to be in no pressing need of deciding what to do, and he decided at a restaurant and went to a theatre, trying to persuade himself that he rather enjoyed being a free lance once more.

The attempt was a failure. The pale face of Lady Ursula, with its pure child-like blue eyes, came between him and the people on the stage.

He did not wait until the end of the performance, but went out into the Strand, and down to Westminster Bridge, hoping that in the cold and the darkness he might be able to think more clearly.

He had a fancy that he was being followed, but he did not much care. He looked round once or twice, but in the hurrying throng of foot-passengers he could distinguish no one, and he told himself that he was losing his nerve.

He stopped for a moment on the bridge at a spot where there was no body but himself. He looked up at the river at the outline of the Houses of Parliament, and at the lights beyond and on each side of him.

Someone was crossing the empty space; someone was touching his arm.

He looked round quickly, saw just enough to know that the person who had touched him was Wilfrid Evans, and then he staggered back with a cry.

Full in his face he had received the splashing contents of a wide-mouthed shallow jar, blinding him, stinging his skin, spreading like a devouring fire over his features, scorching, burning, devastating.

He heard the rush of the crowd, voices exclaiming, cries, shouts; he felt the touch of would-be helping hands. But all about him he could hear the shrill "He-he-he!" of the villainous little Welshman as he writhed in torture, speechless, sightless.

"The hospital! Take him to the hospital!" cried someone.

Paul stretched out his hands, trying to feel his way out of the crowd, out of the fire that consumed him.

But the fire went with him, burning, raging, and he could not see. He was helpless in the hands of friend and foe.

If we consider that there are ten of us allies, that each wants something from Germany after the war, that Germany still thinks she has the right to the things which we want are still far a large part in German holding, we shall learn to disabuse our minds of the idea that the end is near. We must think, and act, and organize as though Germany meant to go on 'to the last breath of horse and man,' and above all else must we organize our man-power, and count nothing accomplished until our superiority of numbers in the field is absolutely annihilating.—London Times.

Anxious Faces in Germany

By a Neutral Pro-German Diplomat,
Quoted by the Manchester Guardian

The sad and anxious faces one meets in Berlin make one think that happiness has fled the world. To economic anxieties are now added those inspired by the military situation. . . . They are still putting a good face on things, and some even believe that Verdun will be given up soon, but, all the same, my impression is that the morale of the German soldier has become weaker, and that he has no longer his old confidence in the utility of the efforts demanded of him. Germany's strength can grow no greater. It has reached its apogee.

HAD ALMOST GIVEN UP.

Sarnia, Ont.—"About 27 years ago I was taken very bad, my blood, too, was in bad shape. I got V.I. had to go to bed and I was there for three months. I could not eat and suffer from indigestion. I had three of the best doctors I could get but it just seemed nothing was going to help me. I had a number of friends thought I would never be any better and was willing to give up the matter and suffer as I was. A neighbor of mine told me of Dr. Pierce's wonderful remedy and I decided to use them. My husband bought me six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I had not taken it long until I felt better. In less than six weeks I was out of bed, and in less than six months I was cured and have been well ever since. Do all my own work. I have raised three daughters, two are married and have children. They have used it and they are healthy, so are their children. I am sure it was all on account of my having them use the medicine.

"I keep all of Dr. Pierce's medicines in the house. Have 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Santol-Wood'—anything prepared by Dr. Pierce is good. I also have a copy of the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which I have had 20 years; it has been very valuable to me."—Mrs. J. W. Wax, 232 Ontario St., Sarnia, Ont.

If you are a sufferer, if your daughter, mother, sister need help, get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form from any medicine dealer today. Then address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and get confidential medical advice entirely free.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills, first put up nearly 50 years ago.

He Was a Feminist
A Boston mother was endeavoring to cure her Waldo of his fear of the darkness.

"Now, dearie," said she, as she tucked him in one dark night, "you know who is always with you even in the dark?"

"Yes," was the astonishing reply, "but I want your or nurse, not man,"—Harper's.

More Men Now

Prepare for the Worst While Hoping for the Best

There is unmistakable wisdom in General Sir William Robertson's advice to prepare for the worst while hoping for the best. The greatest of all follies is to under estimate one's opponents. It is well for us to remember that many fights have been lost in the last round. The fact that we now possess the upper hand and that the enemy is fighting on the defensive, hardly daring to expect anything but defeat, is the greater reason for putting all our strength into the field. Sir William Robertson, speaking with unchallengeable authority as Chief of the General Staff, declares that the army wants more men and that it wants them now. Very well, it must have them.—London Express.

Miller's Worm Powders not only exterminate intestinal and other worms, but they are a remedy for many other ailments of children. They strengthen the young stomach, cure flatulency and are tonic in their effects where the child suffers from loss of appetite. In feverish conditions but they will be found useful and they will serve to allay pain and griping in the stomach, from which children so often suffer.

A French comrade thinks it would be a good idea to begin the world afresh, so far as a chance in the calendar could do it, by dating the signing of peace year one, second edition. He thinks it might help some to forget what has happened.

Awful Asthma Attacks.—Is there a member of your family who is in the power of this distressing trouble? No service you can render him will equal the bringing to his attention of Dr. J. D. It has a truly wonderful record, covering years and years of success in almost every part of this continent, and even beyond the seas.

French Talk

An officer writes from some point well within the firing line on the Somme.

"We have taken 2,000 prisoners to-day. I have just been speaking to one who talks English. He said their officers only came up at night and looked around, and then for safety of the pending revolution in Germany, it was kept from them, but they could have got away if they had had no food for two whole days. He said if we got through here we should finish the war so far as fighting is concerned, as behind these positions were some miles of open country, beautiful galloping ground, not yet defended. I asked him if he thought the Germans could win, and he said, sadly: 'Germany is defeated and disgraced. She can never hold up her head again.'"

The young man was disconsolate. "I asked her if I could see her home," said he.

"Will you certainly," she answered. "I will send you a picture of it."—The Advance.

French Appreciation

Prominent Frenchmen Refer to the British Arms in Eulogistic Terms

Our French friends speak of our share in the victory with a warm and generous enthusiasm which we can assure them, possibly, they will not return. M. Poincaré, in a message to King George, speaks of "the brilliant successes won by the British arms." The Echo de Paris offers our glorious army the "grateful and heartfelt homage" of the French people. General Zurlinden declares that France will "never forget" our effort: M. Harbord describes our soldiers as "true brothers in arms," and M. Pichon says that "Britain with her man-power and material is winning the war," and that "the day when we entered the war was the day of Germany's defeat."—London Times.

The Need of the Hour

The great cry now is the lack of leadership in the churches. The war has called away thousands of fine young men who had time and energy to church and Sunday school work. Their places must be filled. Every man who is called to the front increases the value of our growing boys. Canada's manhood will suffer a terrible decline unless these "men of tomorrow" are inspired and trained to fill the places of the gallant fellows who are paying the supreme sacrifice.—Ottawa Journal.

His Job

"What do you do?" asked one man of another in the smoking car.

"I work for this railroad," replied the other.

"What is your job—do you sell papers?"

"No, not exactly," replied the second. "You know the man who goes alongside of the train and taps the wheels with a hammer to see that everything's all right? Well, I help him listen."

No More Zuyder Zee

The Dutch Government Proposes to Drain Big Body of Water

It looks as if, the world is to have one sea less. The Dutch Government propose to drain the Zuyder Zee and to shut it off by a dyke running from the North Holland coast to the Frisian coast.

The sea, which is very shallow, and is 70 miles long, and from 10 to 45 miles broad, was in the time of the Romans covered with forests and was a royal hunting ground.

In 1720 came the great flood known in Dutch history as the "All Saints' Day Flood." The sea swept over the land and covered the forests, engulphed towns and cities, and drowned thousands of people. More floods followed in 1825 and 1826, and by 1410 the Zuyder Zee had assumed practically its present proportions. When this sea is drained of water the show places of Holland will disappear in the island of Marken. The fisher folk here all wear the old national costume.

Most of the houses are constructed from the timbers of old boats, and many are built on piers, the floors of the houses being 10 to 15 feet from the ground.

The work of draining the Zee will take 15 years, at an inclusive cost of about $15,000,000.

A TALK ON RHEUMATISM

Telling How to Actually Cure This Common and Painful Malady

This article for the man or woman who suffers from rheumatism who wants to be cured, not merely relieved—but actually cured. The most distressing sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the tender, aching joint is a little relief. No vision of permanent ever did or can make a cure. The rheumatic poison is rooted in the blood. Therefore rheumatism can only be cured when this poisonous acid is driven out of the blood. Any doctor will tell you this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

They make new, rich blood which drives out the poisonous acid and cures rheumatism to stay cured. The truth of these statements has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada, and the following is a striking instance. Mr. Henry Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says: "For upwards of a year I was suffering from rheumatism in a most painful form. The trouble was located in my legs and for a long time I was unable to get about. I consulted the suffering which I endured can only be imagined by those who have been similarly afflicted. My doctor's treatment did not help me and then I began trying other remedies, but with better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had begun to lose faith in the pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the pills the trouble completely disappeared. I was free from pain and could walk as well as ever I did in my life. I have since taken the pills occasionally as a precautionary measure, and I cannot speak too highly in their favor."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles due to weak, watery blood or broken down nerves. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail postpaid, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Knowing One: "Ere's a lark, 'Erb. I arst that ole bloke wot these 'ere fish was, an' 'e sez 'S'rumps.' I links co. I comes from London. I don't know as s'rumps is pink!—Passing Show."

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excesses away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

Canadian's Smart Rejoinder

Travelling recently in the United States, a Canadian banker was observed to occupy a seat in a compartment in which a German was loudly boasting of what Germany would achieve in the war. The Canadian was furious, but kept his temper, and asked the German if he were a soldier.

"Yes," said Fritz. "Then why don't you go back and fight," asked the banker. "I can't get there," was the reply. "Well," said the Canadian, "I'm going to England next week and there nothing to stop me. Germany doesn't seem to have gained much if it is impossible for a German to cross the seas and fight for his Fatherland."

"Did you ever know a woman to play whilst without continually asking 'What's the trumps?'"

"Yes, one. She was deaf and dumb and couldn't ask with her fingers because they were holding the cards."

BE CAREFUL

In your choice of an ointment. An inferior ointment is worse than none at all, because it irritates and inflames, and sometimes even poisons the place it is intended to soothe and heal. In using Zam-Buk you take no risk, as its soothing healing properties have been proved by thousands of users, and it affords the best remedy for the famous Eczema, Chert, Mr. W. Lancelotti Scott, who says:

"I have made an exhaustive analytical examination of Zam-Buk and find it exclusively of vegetable origin, with none of the impure and irritating mineral drugs and animal fats found in ordinary ointments. The germ-destroying powers of Zam-Buk exceed those of carbolic acid, yet it does not inflame even the most sensitive skin. I have no hesitation in certifying the purity of Zam-Buk, and its value for skin diseases and injuries."

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, eruptions, running sores, old wounds, abscesses, blood-poisoning, boils, pimples, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25, all druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for postage and free trial box.

ROBERT WHITFIELD,

PRINTER AND PUBLISHER.

CROSSFIELD, ALTA., JAN. 5, 1917.

Hon. C. W. Fisher Visits Crossfield

On Wednesday afternoon the Hon. C. W. Fisher paid a visit to Crossfield in the capacity as President of the Patriotic Fund for the Cochrane Electoral District. A meeting was held in the afternoon, and owing to the short notice, very few were present, however, this did not hinder the business of the meeting being got through successfully. The re-organizing of the Central Committee for the district was the chief feature, in order to commence the 1917 campaign. Mr. Fisher explained to those present the working of the Fund, means of collecting the same, and its distribution. He also explained away many of the false rumours that have been spread abroad, and showed how any who were not entitled to the benefits of the fund would be prevented from obtaining the same, if the different committees used the power they had. He also explained how everyone who was entitled to benefit could do so through the same means.

The Central Committee appointed was as follows: Rev. H. M. Horrie, Mr. A. A. Hall; Mr. H. S. Bray, Mrs. W. McIlroy and Mrs. J. G. Grayley. The School Trustees of the different school districts to be the committee and to be responsible for their own district.

In the evening an informal supper was given to Mr. Fisher at the Alberta Hotel, at which a number of the gentlemen of the village and vicinity were invited to meet Mr. Fisher, and in passing we may say that great praise is due to Mr. and Mrs. Curran for the ample menu provided at very short notice. After supper a meeting was held and those assembled had the opportunity of hearing a lengthy address on the working of the Patriotic Fund. It is now up to the different committees to get to work, and there is no doubt that in the near future the result will be that the required sum will be forthcoming.

The Benefit of Good Example

The benefit of good example was illustrated the other day at Pincher Creek when two treaty Indians, Neil Yellow Pines and Charles Grier brought in the sum of $20 as a contribution to the Canadian Patriotic Fund.

These two men had seen in the papers that another Indian, Big Swan, had given $10 to the Fund and they were not to be outdone in their generosity, so they came with similar amounts. If the white people of Southern Alberta contribute on the same scale, the Patriotic Fund will be subscribed several times over.

Death of W. A. Wilson

It is with regret that we have to announce the death of Mr. W. A. Wilson, which took place at his home in Crossfield, at two o'clock a.m. Thursday, January 4th. Mr. Wilson was a native of King's Lynn, Norfolk, England, where he was an engineer. He came to Canada six and a half years ago and took a farm on the C.P.R. colony, and remained there up to the time of the illness that has just proved fatal. Although he has been suffering for the last two years he has borne his affliction with christian fortitude and patience. The deceased was 60 years of age. He leaves a widow, one son, now in England with the 187th Batt., and a daughter, Mrs. W. Tims, of Crossfield.

The interment will take place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Service by Rev. J. P. Dingle at the Church of the Ascension.
